For Immediate Release

With rents continuing to skyrocket, renters and supporters will be rallying at Parliament on Sunday March 19 – the 1-year anniversary of the Malinauskas government – to call for urgent action on the housing emergency.

It has never been more expensive and stressful to be a renter. People renting, especially on low incomes, face a nightmare: rents rose 9 percent last year, and less than 10 percent of advertised rentals are less than $400 a week; a vacancy rate of 0.2 percent; weak legal protections; over 17,000 people on the public housing waiting list (with over 3,000 on Category 1).

"This is a crisis, but neither level of government is prepared to do what it truly takes to protect renters from growing hardship. After 1 year in office, the Malinauskas government's announcements have been only minor policy tweaks and 'baby steps', with nothing to control the huge rent rises that have caused devastation.

In an emergency, minor tweaks and 'baby steps' will not do. We need the Malinauskas government to show courage and leadership, including by halting skyrocketing rent rises", Anti-Poverty Network SA spokesperson, Duncan Bainbridge, said.

Anti-Poverty Network SA is calling for:

- An emergency rent-freeze, to allow renters to catch their breath after years of massive rent rises that have outstripped increases to people's incomes.
- A vacancy tax to address the 86,000 empty houses in SA: we cannot afford to have any empty houses, during an emergency.
- 584 new public homes by 2026 will barely make a dent into the unprecedented level of community need: we need many thousands of new public homes, funded through taxation of developers and banks, as well as the scrapping of the Stage 3 Tax Cuts; and we need to ensure that every current public home in the state is able to house people.

- Strengthened protections for renters, including on evictions and lease non-renewals, and better standards of energy-efficiency, heating, and cooling.
- A raise to JobSeeker and other Centrelink payments, as part of the May Federal Budget.

The rally will kick-off a week of action, which will include a mass doorknocking and letterboxing session in Elizabeth South, one SA's most rent-stressed suburbs, afterwards; a community BBQ; and renters and supporters visiting their Member of Parliament.
